Standing Rule 1: Definition of Applied Linguistics

Applied Linguistics is an interdisciplinary field of inquiry that addresses a broad range of language-related issues in order to understand their roles in the lives of individuals and conditions in society. It draws on a wide range of theoretical and methodological approaches from various disciplines—from the humanities to the social and natural sciences—as it develops its own knowledgebase about language, its users and uses, and their underlying social and material conditions.

 - vii. Members may submit a “minority opinion” or “in response to” statement to be published with the Position Statement. Such statements may be submitted to the Public Affairs and Engagement Committee at any stage in the review process for a Position Statement, and for up to one year following its approval. Every effort will be made to select incoming chairs from among the steering committee members. If no steering committee members are suitable, eligible, or willing to serve, the incoming Co-Chair positions will be filled through a transparent application process led by the current co-chairs.
 - c) The Secretary and At-Large positions shall be filled through an application process that includes transparent guidelines for applicants. This process will begin three months prior to the Annual Business Meeting. All council members shall be eligible to apply although preference may be given to those who have previously volunteered with the council. Diversity in the steering committee is desirable and may consider the following: race, ethnicity, age, geography, (dis)ability, sexual orientation, economic status, citizenship status, religion, academic focus, degree program, and career goals to ensure a variety of experience and areas of expertise. The appointments shall be made by the Co-Chairs from among the applicants no later than one month following the Annual Business meeting, with selections being ratified by the President.

- i. To encourage diversity of institutions, each member of the steering committee must have a different institutional affiliation at the outset of their term of service.
 - ii. One of the two Co-Chairs of the Graduate Student Council is an Appointed member of the Executive Committee and is invited to all Executive Committee meetings. The Co-Chairs shall determine on a per-year basis which Chair shall be in attendance.

3. The Business Office will work with the President-Elect and Treasurer to recommend to the Executive Committee for approval a ranked set of proposals (as possible given proposals submitted) in order of preference for the Business Office to negotiate. Executive Committee approval of the ranked list must be made via a regular or called meeting, and not through an email discussion/vote.
4. The Business Office will negotiate the contract and subsequently the contract will be approved by the President-Elect and Treasurer and signed by the Treasurer. Should the final contract deviate materially from the original proposal in the Immediate Past President or Treasurer's estimation, full Executive Committee approval will be sought on the contract prior to signature.

 - i. The conference budget should be developed in consultation with the Treasurer and the Business Office, and may be developed in consultation with the President, President-Elect and the First Vice President.
 - ii. The conference budget must be approved by the Budget Committee and presented to the Executive Committee at the meeting(s) held approximately twelve months before the date the conference is to be held.
 - iii. Identify a conference planning team to assist with conference programming and logistics.
 - d) The Second Vice President (Associate Conference Chair) may also recruit one Local Coordinator whose duties may include under the direction of the Conference Chair:

- i. recommending local student volunteers
 - ii. generating local sponsorships and funding for receptions
 - iii. arranging graduate student housing
 - iv. providing local information
 - v. generating local publicity
 3. Responsibilities of the Strand Coordinators
 - a) Recruit abstract reviewers: The number required will be based on the number of reviewers and abstract submissions for each strand over the past two years. The reviewers must be available for review from the end of the week following the proposal deadline for three weeks. Reviewers should be recruited from a variety of institutions and strand-based research interests. Ideally, reviewers must be current AAAL members in good standing, although this is not an essential requirement. Recruitment should be completed, and a list of reviewers submitted to the Conference Chair by June 1.
 - b) Add reviewers to conference proposal reviewing program (as needed, pending proposal reviewing program and staff support): Reviewers will use the conference proposal system to evaluate abstracts.
 - c) Assign abstracts to reviewers: Each proposal needs to be assigned to at least two reviewers. Time frame: beginning with the proposal submission (on or around July 15) for approximately 10 days.

 - v. Specific instructions for how reviewers should conduct the abstract review will be provided by AAAL. Each abstract must be evaluated by two readers and, in case of disagreement, by a third reader. The Strand Coordinator can serve in the capacity of third reader by completing a formal review, or can ask another reviewer to play this role. Time frame: All reviews to be completed within four weeks of the proposal submission closing date, with issues to be addressed by Strand Coordinator within one additional week.
 4. Logistical matters may be arranged by the Business Office, as specified in the Standing Rule pertaining to the Business Office.
 - a) Additional detail on specific tasks and responsibilities will be outlined in the conference project management task list and the conference operating procedures.
 - b) The task list and the operating procedures will be reviewed annually by the Business Office, Treasurer and First Vice President (Conference Chair).
 5. Any proposed changes to the format or availability of the on-site program book will normally be presented to the AAAL Executive Committee by the incoming First Vice President (Conference Chair) at the spring meeting one year prior to the conference, for discussion and approval.
- B. Proposal and Scheduling Policies
 1. Individuals may submit a maximum of one abstract as first author, whether a paper (including papers presented in a colloquium), a poster, or a roundtable session. This means that an individual can only appear once as a single or first author on the program except for in an additional role as a colloquium organizer or discussant or conference workshop presenter. An individual may also appear as a co-author/co-presenter of other papers (including papers presented in a colloquium), posters, or roundtable sessions provided they are not first author.
 2. First authors are expected to present the research bearing their name, but all authors are encouraged to share in the presentation of co-authored research.

3. All proposals (for individual papers, posters, roundtable sessions, and colloquia) must represent original and unpublished work that is not yet available to the AAAL membership (with the exception of material from publications in press).
4. Proposals for all presentation formats will be double-blind peer reviewed.
5. Individuals who will not be attending the conference are discouraged from submitting proposals. Presenters who know that they cannot attend the conference are asked to withdraw their proposals as soon as possible to give another presenter a place on the program. If unforeseen circumstances at the last-minute dictate that a presenter cannot attend the conference, a substitute will be permitted.
6. The author's confirmation of attendance and presentation signifies that the author will present the paper on the day and time assigned by the conference program committee. AAAL will not respond to or consider requests for a specific time slot.

C. Presenters

1. All presenters attending the conference are required to register for the conference.
2. Co-authors not attending are not required to register for the conference.
3. First authors as submitted in the session proposal are considered to be the primary presenter. This presenting author is required to register for the conference prior to being scheduled.
4. Adjudicated conference presentations may not be done solely by telecommunication procedures; at least one co-author must be physically present at the conference.
 - a) Although in-person participation is prioritized, exception to this policy will be made in certain cases to allow for submission of a voice over PPT and speaker phone for Q&A segment with the session to be managed by a student volunteer. These accommodations may be made in the following circumstances, with supporting documentation of eligibility:
 - i. Medical circumstance of self or immediate family member which prevents travel
 - ii. Denial or rejection of visa beyond a time frame which reasonably allows for travel accommodations to the conference, at the Conference Chair's discretion
 - iii. Citizenship of or current residence in a "travel ban" country

D. Other organizations

1. As part of putting together the program for the conference, the Conference Chair may invite other organizations to hold a special, invited colloquium during the AAAL annual conference.
2. As a matter of policy, complimentary conference registration will not be provided to participants of these invited colloquia.
3. Exceptions to this policy will need to be considered by the full Executive Committee in the larger context of AAAL's current strategic initiatives.
4. AAAL has a tradition of hosting joint sessions with related organizations, traditions in some cases going back many years. The number of joint sessions, and the related organizations involved, has varied greatly from year to year. The following policy has been developed in order to regularize this process, and to guide the First Vice President (Conference Chair).
 - a) Purpose: The aims of the joint invited sessions policy are to:
 - i. foster collegial relations with related organizations;
 - ii. allow enhanced opportunities for interaction between specific relevant disciplinary areas and other disciplinary areas of applied linguistics;
 - iii. give additional exposure to specific areas, for example those currently under-represented, or of particular relevance or interest to a particular conference location or the research interests of a particular conference chair;
 - a. recognize a tradition of existing regular joint sessions;
 - b. give prominence to important and often overlooked areas of intersection between the two associations while also raising the profile of the partner association;
 - c. guide the Conference Chair in the choice of joint invited sessions;
 - d. create consistency and distribution of access across the years in the organizations invited to participate in joint sessions.
 - b) Procedure:

- i. A Joint Invited Sessions subcommittee of the executive will be constituted in spring (two years prior to the conference), consisting of the incoming Second Vice-President (Associate Conference Chair; subcommittee chair) and two other members of the Executive Committee.
 - ii. The subcommittee is tasked with the following responsibilities:
 - a. to annually draw up a list of potentially relevant organizations that could be invited to hold joint sessions;
 - b. to issue a call for proposals for joint invited sessions of two hours in length by June 15th in the year of the Second Vice President's term of office, for the conference which they will be chairing. The call will be published on the Association's website, but in addition, copies of the call will be emailed to associations on the list. The deadline for initial submissions will be September 1st (with a ranking of proposals from which to solicit full proposals by Sept. 30th). One goal is to produce a preliminary list for the October EC meeting.
- c) Policies
- i. The joint sessions should (ideally) have the endorsement of, and/or participation by Board members, of the parent association whose organizational name is being used. These are self-funded sessions with no special arrangements to be made by AAAL, apart from notification and scheduling of events.
 - ii. Normally, depending on the number of other invited (non-joint) colloquia and invited plenary speakers, a maximum of three joint sessions will be selected. Preference in approval of one of the sessions would be for an association which is underrepresented at the conference or which otherwise reflects the resolution on diversity. Associations hosting conferences/meetings in the same city as the planned conference at about the same time should be considered as well, possibly on a rotating basis (e.g., TESOL, ILTA).
 - a. As with other proposals, submitters to a special joint session cannot also be organizers or first-paper authors in other sessions for the same AAAL conference.
 - b. The criteria for selection of invited sessions will be informed by the aims of the policy and criteria used to evaluate other colloquium proposals (see below).
 - c. Joint proposal applications cannot previously have been presented or proposed through the regular colloquium vetting process. However, if the joint session is not accepted, given the program constraints, it can still be submitted for vetting as a regular colloquium proposal the following summer for the same conference. It will not be listed as a Joint Session in that case.
 - d. All presenters at AAAL must register for the conference.
- d) Application and Timeline
- i. Call for proposals to be circulated by June 15th annually
 - ii. Information about organizer(s), partner association, title, and 50-word summary to be submitted via the AAAL web site by September 1st, approximately 18 months prior to the conference
 - iii. Shortlisted sessions will be notified on or around September 20th and will then be requested to submit a full proposal by approximately October 1st giving the committee time prior to the midyear meeting of the Executive Committee to make final determinations
 - a. Proposals must meet the expectations of other AAAL colloquia as well, including:
 1. Appropriateness, timeliness, and significance of the topic
 2. Presentation of original and on-going research studies OR differing or dissenting perspectives on an important issue
 3. Coherence and complementarity of the papers

4. Manner of presentation (clearly indicated schedule of activity, with significant amount of time allocated for discussion of the presentations and audience participation)
 5. Fit with the broader mandates of AAAL (e.g. mission) and align with one of its strands
 6. Decisions will be communicated by the end of October, with additional Joint sessions added on a rolling basis as needed based on cancellations and/or program availability.
- E. Americans with Disabilities Act accommodations
1. A request for accommodation for the annual conference under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) will be accommodated unless it clearly represents an undue burden. If it is projected to represent an undue burden, AAAL will consult legal counsel to determine compliance with the request. The AAAL conference website will bear the notice that “Requests for accommodation under the Americans with Disabilities (ADA) act may only be made by registered conference attendees and should be received by sixty (60) days prior to the first full day of the annual conference to give AAAL time to review the request and make appropriate accommodations. Requests must be made in writing to conference@aal.org and must specify days of the conference for which accommodations are requested. Individuals submitting requests after the deadline will be directed to sessions for which accommodations are already arranged, if applicable.”
- F. Child Policy:
1. The AAAL Annual Conference is committed to welcoming and supporting members with family responsibilities. The following guidelines will help ensure that we are able to do so while also ensuring the safety of children attending the conference.
 2. Everyone who attends must be registered and have a badge. Badges for children of registered attendees and their caretakers are free. For the purposes of this policy, “children” are defined as birth children, stepchildren, adopted children, and dependents. It is requested that children be registered in advance in conjunction with their parent(s). However, child registration is available onsite at the registration desk.
 3. Children under 14 years of age must be accompanied by an adult guardian at all times. Guardians are asked to help maintain a professional exhibition environment.
 4. For their own safety, children under 18 are not allowed in the exhibition area during exhibition move-in and move-out. In addition, AAAL is committed to providing a space for lactation needs. Please note that AAAL, nor the hotel, will be providing childcare during the conference.
- G. Allowable expenses at the Annual Conference can be found in the Standing Rule titled Reimbursable Expenses. The Conference Chair should explain maximum reimbursable expenses when recruiting participants.
- H. Indigenous Language Scholarship Support Fund
1. Purpose: This fund will be used to provide support for Indigenous language scholars presentation and participation in the AAAL annual conference. It will facilitate presentation of papers, posters and roundtables on Indigenous languages. The funding is intended for scholars presenting on Indigenous languages who have very limited or no access to funding. Priority will be given to community-based language experts.

Standing Rule 20: Reimbursable Expenses

AAAL is a non-profit organization that exists to further the field of applied linguistics and for the benefit of its members. It exists in partnership with universities, research centers, and other institutions that share its aims. Members who are elected to the Executive Committee, those who are appointed (see Section C), and those who are appointed to committees do so voluntarily without expectation of financial reimbursement for their time and energies. The responsibilities related to the President, President-Elect, Vice Presidency, and other offices on the Executive Committee are considerable. As members make plans to assume a place on the Executive Committee, they should be able to identify appropriate sources of support from their own institution for the time and resources demanded by a major professional commitment.

The following guidelines are designed to regulate the normal expenses of AAAL administration by members of the Executive Committee, appointed members of the Executive Committee, representatives to AILA, plenary speakers at the annual conference, conference planning team, Local Coordinator, and Chairs of Standing and Ad Hoc Committees.

AAAL will not reimburse the chairs of standing and ad hoc committees for travel, lodging and meals at the annual conference. Any extraordinary expense associated with the conduct of the business of the committee must be approved in advance by the Treasurer.

Standing Rule 21: The Business Office

The Treasurer, with the formal concurrence of the Executive Committee, will contract with one or more non-member individuals or organizations for the establishment and operation of a Business Office. The duties of the Business Office shall be specified in a formal contract for services. Typically, such contracts shall include the collection of dues, the maintenance of auditable fiscal records, the provision of assistance with the mounting of the annual conference, including the negotiation of hotel space, audio-visual support, local arrangements, and the solicitation of advertising on behalf of the Association, and coordination of membership drives and publicity for the Association, and the collection of members' suggestions for improved services. However, it is understood that the formal relationship between AAAL and any independent individual and/or organization is the sole responsibility of the Executive Committee, and any such individual and/or organization receives its instructions from, and reports to, the Executive Committee, not to the Treasurer.

With the approval of the Executive Committee, the President may convey the courtesy title of Managing Director upon a member of the Business Office staff. With the approval of the Executive Committee, the President may remove the courtesy title of Managing Director from a member of the Business Office staff.

1. The Managing Director shall be AAAL's chief staff officer, shall be responsible for implementing and overseeing compliance with AAAL Bylaws and Standing Rules and shall serve as an ex officio, non-voting member of the Executive Committee.
2. The Managing Director, in consultation with the Executive Committee, may retain outside counsel or other necessary consultants or contractors and shall recommend for Treasurer approval contracts and MOUs.
3. The Managing Director shall manage and oversee staff and shall be responsible for ensuring execution of all AAAL management functions.
4. The Managing Director may negotiate business matters on behalf of the association.

C. Conflict of Interest

1. AAAL volunteers and staff are expected to disclose any actual, potential or apparent conflicts of interest. A conflict of interest exists when there is another interest that might suggest divided loyalty between AAAL and other obligations (which may be relational, financial, etc.). A relationship or interest should be disclosed even if there is uncertainty as to whether the interest presents a conflict.
2. Disclosures should be made to the members of the entity/committee upon which the volunteer serves as soon as the individual is aware of the actual, potential or apparent conflict of interest. The entity shall determine whether a conflict of interest exists, the AAAL President shall be made aware of this determination, and the individual with the actual, potential or apparent conflict of interest shall have the right to appeal the decision of the entity to the Executive Committee. The Executive Committee has ultimate discretion to determine whether a relationship or interest is a conflict of interest.
3. Determination of the entity/committee or Executive Committee that a conflict exists results in one of the following actions:
 - a) Waiving of the actual, potential or apparent conflict as unlikely to affect the volunteer or staff's ability to act in the best interests of AAAL or affect the integrity of AAAL;
 - b) Determine that the individual should be recused from discussions and/or decision-making related to the particular transaction or matter at issue; or
 - c) Recommend that the individual resign from his/her service because the actual, potential or apparent conflict is so pervasive that the volunteer or staff would seldom, if ever, likely be able to act in the best interests of AAAL.
4. Disclosure under this policy should not be construed as creating a presumption of impropriety.

D. Whistleblower

1. AAAL is committed to maintaining an environment where staff and volunteers are free to raise good faith concerns regarding AAAL business practices. Staff and volunteers are encouraged to report suspected violations of the law or AAAL policy, including those contained in Bylaws or these Standing Rules, and to provide truthful information in connection with any official inquiry or investigation. AAAL expressly prohibits any form of retaliation against those who raise aforementioned suspected violations, whether staff (including employees of a contracted Association Management Company) or volunteer.
2. Procedure
 - a) Reports of suspected violation of law or policy and reports of retaliation will be investigated promptly and, in a manner, intended to protect confidentiality. The President will manage such an investigation, and may request the assistance of counsel or other parties as s/he deems necessary. The President will prepare a report of the findings and submit it to the Executive Committee.
 - b) In the event that a suspected violation concerns the President, they will recuse themselves from proceedings and the Executive Committee shall select an appropriate Officer of AAAL to conduct the investigation.
 - c) Any staff or volunteer who believes that they have been subjected to any form of retaliation as a result of reporting suspected violation should immediately report such incident to their supervisor or AAAL President.
