

AAAL 2022 Webinar Series

Writing for the public: Translating academics to activism

Dr. Suzanne García-Mateus and Sabrina Fluegel

3 August 2022 12:00pm – 1:00pm CST (UTC-6)

AAAL's Public Affairs and Engagement Committee and Committee for Online Education and Outreach are pleased to announce an upcoming webinar on academic writing for public audiences. This webinar explores the ways in which applied linguists use their academic expertise to create scholarship for audiences beyond academia. Public scholarship is essential for academics who care deeply about the implications of language policies and practices for marginalized language speakers.

Our invited speakers, Dr. Suzanne García-Mateus, Assistant Professor of Bilingual Education at California State University Monterey Bay, and Sabrina Fluegel, Doctoral Candidate at the University of Minnesota, Twin Cities, will explore the importance of public scholarship, how it is done, and how to overcome challenges that scholars may face in the process.

Dr. Suzanne García-Mateus
CSU Monterey Bay

Sabrina Fluegel
University of Minnesota

Please visit this link to register:

<https://www.aal.org/events/webinar-writing-for-the-public-translating-academics-to-activism>

Zoom link provided after registration.

Organized by the Committee for Online Education and Outreach