FRESH OPPORTUNITIES AMPLIFIED

ACEC state and national programs promote the cross pollination of ideas and processes-leveling the playing field between large and small firms to improve cost efficiencies and support greater business collaboration.

"ACEC Illinois provides an incredible networking opportunity - both with fellow consultants as well as our main clients. As the 'thought leader' of our industry, our clients value input from ACEC Illinois as a collective engineering organization. ACEC Illinois maintains a strong government affairs program and excels in representing the engineering community from the government and consultant perspectives. There are often conflicts and competing interests and ACEC Illinois balances agendas in its role as an industry association - advocating in an ethical and thoughtful manner to help out profession thrive."

-Bruce Schopp, S.E. - President & COO, Oats & Associates, Inc.

GREATER VISIBILITY AMPLIFIED

ACEC is the industry's most recognizable business brand and credential -ACEC membership can help open doors, clear access to government and industry influencers and heavy hitters and boost your own firm's visibility and name recognition.

"To really see the value of your membership dues, members need to attend the conferences. Sitting in on the board meeting and talking to members is how you really understand the great work that ACEC and ACEC Illinois are doing. What they do is quite outstanding, and I look forward to continuing to support the organization."

-Linda Moen, P.E., PTOE, LEED AP BD+C - President, EFK Moen, LLC

"ACEC Illinois is the first organization that we signed up with when we started our company. ACEC Illinois gives me the opportunity to understand the trends in the industry and help me prioritize my business actions. There has been no ACEC Illinois event that I have not met a new person or company. For any size firms, having the potential of meeting a new client or peer at the events is priceless!"

-Orhan Ilgaz Ulger, P.E. - VP, 2IM Group, LLC

"ACEC has always been an important organization for Benesch. We believe it is important for all our offices in every state to be involved in supporting our business through the many benefits of ACEC. Some of the many reasons we both belong and serve in leadership roles include networking to meet great teaming partners and develop great working relationships within the industry, participating in great educational events and liaison committees that both advance our business practices and provide us with up-to-date information on client initiatives, and of course maintaining ongoing relationships with legislators to provide a collective voice to advance funding and address business climate issues. Every firm in the consulting business should be a member of this organization that supports the backbone of our industry.

-Laura L. McGovern, P.E., Executive Vice President, Benesch
