

Matthew Burd, P.E., Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission

Matthew Burd, P.E., serves as the Assistant Chief Engineer – Construction for the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission. A native of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, Matt graduated from Penn State University in 1996. Over the course of his 22-year tenure with the Commission, he has held various positions within the Design Engineering group. In 2022, he was promoted to his current role, where he oversees the construction engineering group, comprising approximately 75 professionals responsible for delivering projects from bidding through construction. Matt lives in Mechanicsburg, with his wife, they have three adult children and two dogs.