Gas Taxes by State & Last Rate Increase

Decade of last gas tax increase: 1970s 1980s 1990s 2000s 2010s

* Note: This map does not reflect 2019 enacted legislation for increases not yet in effect in Alabama, Arkansas and Ohio.

Gas Tax Trends

Since 2013, 30 states have increased user fees (i.e. gas taxes) to fund transportation programs. This bipartisan success occurred in majority Republican states like Georgia, Nebraska, and Utah; majority Democratic states like Massachusetts, New Jersey, Vermont, and California; and even competitive 'purple' swing states like Michigan and Virginia.

Such state revenue increases are essential because existing funding streams are not keeping pace with inflation. Exacerbating this shortfall, excise rates tied to fuel consumption are dwindling because of increased fuel efficiency and the increasing popularity of electric vehicles.

The general public largely supports infrastructure investment. The success rate for state and local ballot initiatives seeking to raise revenue for transportation projects was 78% from 2009 to 2018.

At the national level, business and labor leaders are expected to work closely in 2019 to support an increase of the federal gas tax, which is still 18.4 cents per gallon and has not been adjusted since 1993.
