

Raymond McMahon, Esq.

Ray McMahon graduated from the UCLA School of Law in 1993, where he earned the prestigious American Jurisprudence Award in Torts. He has dedicated his legal career to providing vigorous and effective representation for healthcare professionals throughout California. Mr. McMahon is a member of the American Board of Trial Advocates and is highly respected in the legal community, having been selected by his peers as a Super Lawyer in healthcare law for 13 consecutive years since 2012.

Mr. McMahon has more than 20 years of substantial and successful experience representing healthcare professionals in complex civil litigation, including trials and appeals. He has also developed an outstanding reputation for representing physicians and other medical professionals in some of the most challenging and stressful matters of their careers before the California Medical Board and numerous other governmental agencies, including the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) and the Department of Health Care Services. He has authored and been involved in numerous appellate court decisions and has published extensively in the areas of Medical Board defense and opioid prescribing.

Mr. McMahon has been an invited speaker to the Medical Board of California, providing training at conferences for investigators, medical consultants, and expert witnesses. In addition, Mr. McMahon has served as Vice President of the California Association of Attorneys for Health Care Professionals (CAAHCP), one of the premier organizations for attorneys representing healthcare providers in administrative matters. He is a frequently invited speaker for professional organizations on issues involving medical malpractice defense and health law. He has also been honored to present alongside physician members of the Medical Board of California and its Executive Director, including speaking engagements before medical staffs on Medical Board–related issues.