

Travel to CUA via Metro Rail

The Catholic University of America (CUA) is conveniently located at the Brookland-CUA station of the Metro RED LINE.

The 2024 summer Red Line Metro station closures DO NOT AFFECT travel to CUA from the metro area airports and / or Union Station (AMTRAK).

Metro Trip Planner: <https://www.wmata.com/schedules/trip-planner/>

Washington National Airport (DCA)

Metrorail is the fastest and easiest way to reach campus. Take Metro's YELLOW LINE to the Gallery Place/Chinatown station, transfer to the RED LINE, in the direction of Glenmont, and arrive at the Brookland-CUA metro stop. Travel time is approximately 30 minutes.

Travel to CUA via Metro Rail

Baltimore / Washington International Airport (BWI)

Accessible to the CUA campus by taking an AMTRAK train (on the weekend) or MARC train (on weekdays) to Union Station and transfer to Metrorail's RED LINE in the direction of Glenmont to Brookland-CUA metro stop.

Dulles International Airport (IAD)

The Metrorail Silver Line is an affordable and expedient way to travel from Dulles to Washington. Take the SILVER LINE towards LARGO and exit at Metro Center station. Board the RED LINE train to Glenmont. Continue on the Metro to the Brookland-CUA metro stop. The trip from Dulles to Catholic University via the Metrorail is approximately 75 minutes.

Walking from Metro to the Pryz

Brookland-CUA

- ↑ Head northwest on Metropolitan Branch Trail toward John McCormack Rd NE (217 ft)
- ↶ Turn right onto John McCormack Rd NE (33 ft)
- ↶ Turn left toward Cardinal Walk (400 ft)
- ↶ Turn right onto Cardinal Walk (0.1 mi)

Edward J. Pryzbyla University Center

Travel to CUA via Metro Rail

From Metro to the Pryz