Cooperative Leadership Camp, also known as CLC, is a highly sought after, annual summer camp for high school students. Students discover how they can make a difference in the world through cooperative business, engage in experiential learning, create real business and marketing plans, practice managing a real-life budget, identify and resolve real business challenges. Let's not forget camp games and team-building activities! Campers learn about the co-op business model, co-op principles, leadership skills, teamwork, and more! Students even create their very own cooperative t-shirt business! This camp will leave students with lasting memories and motivation to make a difference in the world.

Camp Workshops

- A Day in the Life of a Line Worker
- The Reality of Money: Life as an Adult
- Farming & Sustainability
- Communications Green Screen
- Cooperative Advocacy
- Food Co-op's Living Wage
- And more!

What is a cooperative?

Cooperatives, or co-ops for short, are not-for-profit businesses or organizations that are owned and governed by their members. As a cooperative grows and makes profits, those profits are shared among the membership often in the form of products and services beneficial to the members. Cooperatives operate based on a set of Cooperative Principles and values. Co-ops work together, help their communities and are here for people, not profit.
