Matthew

Matthew Epperson is a US Southern cooperator by passion and by training, based in Athens, GA. He founded the Georgia Co-op Development Center (GCDC) in 2017 — the only organization in Georgia working to simplify and streamline the process of forming a new, or converting an existing business into a cooperative business. He currently works as the Business Director with Savvy Co-op, a platform co-op focused on making healthcare work better for patient-owners. He loves biking, hiking, practicing Zen meditation, discussing books and movies, and his sweetheart, Julia. He is an environmental steward and enjoys performing improv comedy with Flying Squid Comedy.
