

JLL Biography

Catherine Bisson

Adaptive Reuse Director
Project and Development Services

Current Responsibilities

Catherine Bisson serves as the Adaptive Reuse Director of Project and Development Services for the Southeast Central region and is based in JLL’s Atlanta office. She adds a depth of adaptive reuse expertise having spent her career focused on repurposing Atlanta’s iconic warehouses and the rehabilitation and preservation of existing buildings. Catherine is responsible for overseeing complex projects showcasing her ability to both embrace and find opportunities in the challenges often presented by aging buildings. This proves valuable in proposing proven and creative solutions to drive successful project outcomes for clients.

Her key strengths lie in high level critical thinking across a wide range of project types. With a combined 15 years of facility management and adaptive reuse construction management experience, she offers a unique end-user perspective to clients.

She has recently provided leadership for the Ashford Lane Redevelopment, an 18-acre mixed use development in Dunwoody, GA and The Hall at Ashford Lane, the conversion of former retail furniture store to a food hall restaurant.

Previous Experience

Prior to joining JLL, Catherine was hired to establish and expand the adaptive reuse division at Catamount Construction Company and managed construction across a wide range of adaptive reuse projects at Derucki Construction Company. Through her work at both Atlanta-based general contractors, Catherine is able to tap her strong construction background and network to bring that industry expertise to JLL.

Education and Affiliations

Catherine has a Master of Building Construction and Facility Management from Georgia Institute of Technology, a Master of Sports Management from Springfield College, and a Bachelor of Science in Sports Management from James Madison University. Catherine is a member of the Project Management Institute, International Facility Management Association, Construction Management Association of America and the National Association of Women in Construction.
