

Congratulations to Our Newly Elected IAAP Fellows

The Fellows program of the International Association of Applied Psychology (IAAP) recognizes IAAP Full Members who have made distinguished and substantial contributions to the field of applied psychology, which can include service to the Association. The first IAAP Fellowship certificates were presented at the 26th International Congress of Applied Psychology (ICAP) in Athens, Greece, in 2006.

The Association recently elected its 2022 Fellows. Eleven IAAP Full Members were promoted to the rank of Fellow this year:

- Ashkanasy, Neal (The University of Queensland, Australia)
- Borges, Jairo (Universidade de Brasília, Brazil)
- Clayton, Susan (California State University, U.S.A.)
- Dozois, David (University of Western Ontario, Canada)
- Matthies, Ellen (Otto von Guericke University, Germany)
- Munduate, Lourdes (University of Seville, Spain)
- Peiró, José Maria (University of Valencia, Spain)
- Salvador, Alicia (University of Valencia, Spain)
- Schultz, Wesley (California State University, U.S.A.)
- Searle, Rosalind (University of Glasgow, United Kingdom)
- Sun, Jian-Min (James) (Renmin University of China, China)

These promotions will become effective as of 29 July 2022, the date on which the newly elected Fellows of IAAP would have been presented with their Fellowship certificate if the 2022 ICAP had not been postponed to 2023 and eventually cancelled.

Congratulations to all the 2022 IAAP Fellows!

Sincerely,

*Prof. Dr. Janel Gauthier
Chair, Committee on Fellows
International Association of Applied Psychology*
