BENEFITS OF ADVERTISING IN THIS DIRECTORY

1. Maximize your advertising dollar by targeting the selected professional community in their own official referral book.
2. Experience continuous exposure, throughout the entire year, for one low investment.
3. Increase your referrals from professionals.
4. Enhance your image and credibility within the professional community through your affiliation with their local organization.
5. Facilitate your recruitment efforts through institutional advertising.
6. Reach an affluent market, which typically eludes more traditional forms of advertising.
7. Receive a complimentary directory, which offers an accurate list of all members (names, addresses, phone numbers, etc.)

Is Your Doctor a Member?

The Lee County Medical Society (LCMS) is an organization dedicated to the health of our communities.

HISTORY

The Lee County Medical Society was formed in 1927 with just a handful of physicians. Today, virtually every specialty is represented in our medical community and we stand strong as a professional organization.

Only doctors of medicine or osteopathy in Lee County, who have satisfactorily completed an internship and/or residency program approved by the Accreditation Council for Graduate Medical Education or the American Osteopathic Association, are eligible for Society membership.

The physicians who are members of the LCMS have undergone close scrutiny by virtue of our credentialing process, which verifies a physician's medical education background and other information.

We are committed to providing you with the most caring, modern and efficient health care system available, offering over 561 active dedicated physician members ready to respond to your health care needs. All our members share our motto of Physicians Caring for Our Community.

The Medical Society is a voluntary organization. Not all physicians are members of the LCMS; many choose not to get involved for various reasons.

THE LCMS PROVIDES A NUMBER OF VALUABLE SERVICES

Referral Service – the Lee County Medical Society has a referral service in all specialties by geographic area regardless of hospital affiliation.

McCourt Scholarship Fund – provides a scholarship for children with diabetes to go to The Florida Camp for Children and Youth with Diabetes. It provides ways for them to learn to manage and cope with diabetes in a fun atmosphere.

Speaker's Bureau – provides organizations with lectures on a variety of medical topics. If your organization is interested, please call the Medical Society at least six weeks in advance to schedule a lecture.

Website – our website can help you find a LCMS physician. It helps you search through physicians by specialty and provides information on their educational backgrounds. It also offers links to physician websites. Please visit our website for more information at: www.lcmsfl.org.

The Society, through its many committees and volunteer organizations, continues to serve the profession and the citizens of Lee County.

Florida Patient's Bill of Rights and Responsibilities

Florida law requires that your health care provider or health care facility recognize your rights while you are receiving medical care and that you respect the health care provider's or health care facility's right to expect certain behavior on the part of patients. You may request copy of the full text of this law from your health care provider or health care facility. A summary of your rights and responsibilities follows:

A patient has a right to:

- Be treated with courtesy and respect, with appreciation of his or her individual dignity, and with protection of a need for privacy.
- A prompt and reasonable response to questions and requests.
- Know who is providing medical services and who is responsible for his or her care.
- Know what patient support services are available, including whether an interpreter is available if he or she does not speak English.
- Know what rules and regulations apply to his or her conduct.
- Be given by the health care provider information concerning diagnosis, planned course of treatment, alternatives, risks, and prognosis.
- Refuse any treatment, except as otherwise provided by law.

- Be given, upon request, full information and necessary counseling on the availability of known financial resources for his or her care.
- Know, upon request and in advance of treatment, whether the health care provider or health care facility accepts the Medicare assignment rate.
- Receive, upon request, prior to treatment, a reasonable estimate of charges for medical care.
- Receive a copy of a reasonably clear and understandable, itemized bill and, upon request, to have the charges explained.
- Impartial access to medical treatment or accommodations, regardless of race, national origin, religion, handicap, or source of payment.
- Treatment for any emergency medical condition that will deteriorate from failure to provide treatment.
- Know if medical treatment is for purposes of experimental research and to give his or her consent or refusal to participate in such experimental research.
- Express grievances regarding any violation of his or her rights, as stated in Florida law, through the grievance procedure of the health care provider or health care facility, which served him or her, and to the appropriate state-licensing agency.

A patient is responsible for:

- Providing to the health care provider, to the best of his or her knowledge, accurate and complete information about present complaints, past illnesses, hospitalizations, medications, and other matters relating to his or her health.
- Reporting unexpected changes in his or her condition to the health care provider.
- Reporting to the health care provider whether he or she comprehends a contemplated course of action and what is expected of him or her.
- Following the treatment plan recommended by the health care provider.
- Keeping appointments and, when he or she is unable to do so for any reason, for notifying the health care provider or health care facility.
- His or her actions if he or she refuses treatment or does not follow the health care provider's instructions.
- Assuring that the financial obligations of his or her health care are fulfilled as promptly as possible.
- Following health care facility rules and regulations affecting patient care and conduct.

EXPLANATION OF MEDICAL SPECIALTIES

Allergy and Immunology

An allergist/immunologist is a certified internist or pediatrician expert in the evaluation, and management of disorders involving the immune system. Selected examples of such conditions include asthma, anaphylaxis, rhinitis eczema, urticaria, and adverse reactions to drugs, foods, and insect stings.

Anesthesiology

The anesthesiologist's principal task is providing pain relief and maintenance of a stable condition during an operation. The anesthesiologists assess the risk of the patient undergoing surgery and optimize the patient's condition prior to, during, and after surgery. Anesthesiologists also diagnose and treat acute and long-standing pain problems. They also direct resuscitation in the care of patients with cardiac or respiratory emergencies, including the provision of artificial ventilation. They also supervise and teach others involved in anesthesia, respiratory, and intensive care.

Dermatology

A dermatologist is a physician concerned with the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of benign and malignant disorders of the skin, mouth, hair, and nails. The dermatologist has had training and experience in the management of skin cancers, moles, and other tumors of the skin and in the use of the various techniques for the correction of cosmetic defects of the skin. The dermatologist is qualified in the care of normal skin and to administer treatment for all skin diseases.

Emergency Medicine

Emergency Medicine is primarily a hospital-based specialty, which involves the treatment of patients who come to an emergency room. The emergency physician provides immediate evaluation, care, and disposition of patients with acute illness and injury. If the emergency physician feels the patient should be admitted, then they are referred to the appropriate specialty of medicine or surgery for admission to the hospital.

Emergency room physicians care for people who have suffered trauma as in automobile accidents, acute myocardial infarcts and life-threatening conditions then refer to specialists continuing care. Emergency room physicians are also able to handle smaller minor injuries that require outpatient diagnosis and treatment such as acute infectious diseases and lacerations. The emergency room physician can handle many non-life-threatening emergencies without hospitalization.

Family Medicine

Family Medicine is the medical specialty concerned with the total health care of the individual and the family. The family practitioner can, in a sense, be considered the general practitioner of medicine. Family doctors mainly take care of adults, but also are qualified to take care of children and some may even select to perform deliveries. The scope of Family Medicine is not limited by age, sex, or disease. Family doctors refer to other specialists when they deem it necessary. They are trained to recognize and treat problems of family dynamics and how this impacts on the health of the individual.

Internal Medicine

A general internist provides medical care for adolescents and adults. The general internist provides comprehensive care of common and complex illnesses in the office, as well as in the hospital. If they deem it necessary, they may refer to a specialist in an outpatient setting. While in the hospital, they may ask a specialist to come for additional consultation. Generally, they are the one in charge of orchestrating, in complicated cases, the different specialists who may be asked for consultations.

Internists may sub-specialize in:

Cardiovascular Medicine: Cardiologists sub-specialize in diseases of the heart, lungs, and blood vessels and manage conditions such as heart attacks. Often perform complicated diagnostic procedures such as cardiac catheterization.

Critical Care Medicine: This internist has sub-specialized in managing life-threatening acute disorders in intensive care units.

Endocrinology: The endocrinologist specializes in disorders of the internal (endocrine) glands such as the thyroid and adrenal glands. They evaluate and treat diseases such as diabetes, thyroid disease, and glandular disorders.

Gastroenterology: This sub-specialty treats the digestive organs, which includes the gallbladder, liver, stomach, and bowels. The gastroenterologist treats conditions such as abdominal pain, ulcers, diarrhea, cancer, and jaundice, and consults with surgeons when abdominal operations are indicated. Gastroenterologists examine the hollow organs through lighted endoscopes and, through these flexible tubes, can biopsy lining tissues and remove small polyps.

Geriatric Medicine: Geriatric Medicine is not regarded as a sub-specialty, but rather as an added competence in trained internists. The elderly have special needs since they often have an altered presentation of illness and special drug interactions.

Hematology: Hematologists sub-specialize in diseases of the blood, spleen, and lymph glands. They treat conditions such as anemia, clotting disorders, sickle cell disease, hemophilia leukemia and lymphoma. They may perform special types of transfusions and biopsy the bone marrow for analysis as is required for diagnosing and treatment.

Infectious Disease: These sub-specialists deal with infectious diseases of all types and in all organs. Conditions requiring selective use of antibiotics call for this special skill. Patients with fevers that have not been explained are often diagnosed and treated by these sub-specialists, as well as rare and exotic infections with bacteria, viral, and fungi. They are especially suited to help in the treatment of patients who may present multiple and unique infections.

Medical Oncology: The medical oncologist specializes in the diagnosis and treatment on all types of cancer and other benign and malignant tumors. These sub-specialists also decide on and administer chemotherapy for malignancy, as well as consult with surgeons and radiotherapists on treatment for cancer.

Nephrology: The nephrologist is concerned with disorders of the kidney that may produce hypertension and fluid and mineral imbalance. They are the ones chiefly involved in running dialysis units. Dialysis is the mechanical removal of body wastes by a machine when the kidneys do not function.

Pulmonary Diseases: Pulmonary Disease is the subspecialty concerned with diseases of the lungs and other chest tissues. The pulmonologist diagnoses and treats diseases such as pneumonia, cancer of the lung, asthma, bronchitis and emphysema. Pulmonologists test lung functions in many ways, including visually with the bronchoscope and other pulmonary functions studies. Many pulmonary disease experts supervise critical care units.

Rheumatology: Rheumatologists are concerned with diseases of joints, muscles, bones, and tendons. The rheumatologist diagnoses and treats arthritis, various types of back pain, muscle strains, and common athletic injuries. They are trained to treat and recognize diseases of the connective tissue and arteries in many body systems called "collagen" diseases, for example, scleroderma and lupus.

Neonatal-Perinatal Medicine

Neonatal-perinatal physicians are the principal provider for sick newborn infants. They bring focused clinical interest in the problems of newborns. They direct patient care and consult with obstetrical colleagues to plan the care of mothers who have high-risk pregnancies. The extensive clinical experience with sick newborns prepares the specialist as a consultant to general pediatricians as they routinely care for most newborns.

Neurological Surgery

The neurological surgeon is involved in the operative and non-operative management of patients with disorders of the nervous system. They evaluate and treat the disease processes, which modify function for activity of the nervous system. They are the ones who perform brain surgery and also surgery on other nerves of the body such as carpal tunnel syndrome of the wrist. In addition, they do surgery of the spine when discs push on the nerves of the spine.

Neurology

A neurologist is a physician concerned with diagnosis and treatment of all categories of disease involving the central and peripheral nervous system. They treat medical conditions such as stroke, epilepsy, headaches, neck and back pain, and Parkinson's disease. They work closely with neurologic surgeons and refer to them when they think a neurologic problem may respond to surgery.

Neurologists use a variety of techniques and technology to assist them in evaluating and diagnosing neurologic disorders. Disorders may fall into the central nervous system-brain and spinal column, peripheral nervous system-the nerves that cause the body to function and have sensation, or the musculoskeletal system-where the nerve muscle interactions may be responsible for symptoms.

Nuclear Medicine

The nuclear medicine physician uses radionuclides and nuclear imaging instrumentation systems. He serves as a consultant to other physicians, obtaining by carrying out appropriate diagnostic or therapeutic uses of radionuclides.

Obstetrics and Gynecology

The obstetrician and gynecologist often serve as consultants to other physicians and may act sometimes as primary physicians for women. They may elect to practice both obstetrics and gynecology or specialize in one or the other.

Gynecologists provide complete routine care and treat problems such as abnormal bleeding and tumors of the female organs, ovaries, uterus, and cervix, and in doing so, use a variety of techniques, such as Pap smears, biopsies, culdoscopy, and may treat lesions with general surgery. They may provide counseling, treatment and care to women with fertility problems.

Obstetricians provide comprehensive care to the expecting mother during pregnancy for females before and after pregnancy. Obstetricians are specially trained to diagnose and treat complications that may develop in the course of pregnancy and delivery.

Obstetrician-gynecologists may sub-specialize in:

Maternal Fetal Medicine: Maternal Fetal Medicine physicians are obstetrician-gynecologists this subspecialty focuses on diagnosing, treating and caring for women and unborn babies who are at risk of complications or illness during pregnancy or who have been diagnosed with a disease or other medical problem. Doctors who practice this specialty must complete an additional two to three years of fellowship study and training on top of their obstetrics degree.

Reproductive Endocrinology: Reproductive endocrinologists are Obstetrician-Gynecologists with advanced fellowship training, research and professional skills in Reproductive Endocrinology & Infertility. These highly trained and qualified physicians treat Reproductive Disorders that affect children, women, men, the mature woman, and infertility in both men and women. Treatments may include medical therapy, surgery and procedures that maximize fertility potential such as in vitro fertilization (IVF).

Ophthalmology

Ophthalmologists provide comprehensive eye and vision care. They are the only practitioners medically trained to diagnose, monitor and medically or surgically treat all eyelid and orbital problems affecting the eye and visual pathways and to diagnose, monitor and treat all eye disorders. They diagnose, monitor, and treat all eye and visual disorders.

Orthopedic Surgery

Orthopedic surgeons are involved with care of patients with muscle, bone, and joint problems. They treat trauma to the bones and muscles, as well as infections and tumors of the musculoskeletal system. They treat diseases of the musculoskeletal system, both medically and surgically. Arthroscopy and joint replacement surgery are done by orthopedists.

Otolaryngology

An otolaryngologist is a head and neck surgeon that provides comprehensive medical and surgical care of patients with diseases and disorders that affect the ears, the upper respiratory tract, and head and neck in general. The otolaryngologist has an understanding of communications sciences, including audiology, speech, and language pathology. They also may perform allergy testing and treatment of allergies, which involve the head and neck. Head and neck oncology and facial plastic and reconstructive surgery are areas of expertise.

Otolaryngologists perform tonsillectomies, do surgery on the parotid gland and structures of the neck and nose, as well as oral pharynx (mouth and throat), and tongue.

Pain Management

Pain Management physicians provide high level of care for patients experiencing problems with acute, chronic and/or cancer pain.

Palliative Care

Palliative care is specialized medical care for people with serious illness. It focuses on providing relief from the symptoms and stress of a serious illness. The goal is to improve quality of life for both the patient and the family.

Pathology

Pathologists are physicians who study the nature and causes of disease, provide diagnostic testing and reports, and examine specimens sent to the lab by other doctors. Pathologists are prepared to use their skills and knowledge for the diagnosis and monitoring of disease by means of information gathered from the microscopic examination of tissue specimens, cells, and body fluids, and from clinical laboratory tests on body fluids. Pathologists have the clinical training, as well as the laboratory expertise, to function as consultants to physicians practicing clinical medicine and to patients. Hundreds of tests are available. Examples include biopsy and cytology (pap smear) interpretation for cancer, blood counts and chemistries, cultures and therapeutic drug monitoring. They work closely with technologists, administrators and physicians to assure quality, accuracy and appropriate lab testing.

Pathologists completing approved 4-5 year training programs after medical school may take certification exams. A certified specialist in pathology may sub-specialize in the following areas: Blood Banking, Hematology, Chemical Pathology, Medical Microbiology, Forensic Pathology, Dermatopathology, Immunopathology, or Neuropathology.

Pediatrics

Pediatrics is the specialty of medical science concerned with the physical, emotional, and social health of children from birth to young adulthood. Pediatric care encompasses a broad spectrum of health services ranging from preventive health care to the diagnosis and treatment of acute and chronic diseases.

Pediatrics is a discipline that deals with biological, social, and environmental influences on the developing child and with the impact of disease and dysfunction on development. Children differ from adults anatomically, physiologically, metabolically, immunologically, psychologically, and developmentally. A pediatrician is able to define accurately the child's health status, as well as being able to serve as a consultant and to make use of other specialists as consultants. Because children's welfare is heavily dependent on the home and family, the pediatrician supports efforts to create a nurturing environment. Such support includes education about healthful living anticipatory guidance for both patients and parents.

Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation

This is also referred to as Rehabilitation Medicine; it is the medical specialty concerned with diagnosing and treating patients with impairments and/or disabilities, which involve musculoskeletal, neurologic, or cardiovascular systems. The primary focus is on maximal restoration of physical, psychological, and vocational function and alleviation of pain. For diagnosis and evaluation, a physiatrist may include the techniques of electromyography and electrodiagnosis as supplements to the standard history, physical, x-ray, and laboratory examinations. In addition to traditional treatment modes, the specialist in physical medicine and rehabilitation may use therapeutic exercises, prosthetics, orthotics, and mechanical and electrical devices.

Plastic Surgery

This is a subspecialty of surgery, which deals with the repair, replacement, and reconstruction of defects, which are externally visible. They perform both reconstructive surgery that may be needed after an accident and they perform aesthetic (cosmetic) surgery on the face, breasts, and body.

They have special advanced skill in cosmetic skin surgery and perform such procedures as breast augmentation, changing facial aesthetic deformities and suction lipectomy of unwanted fat.

Plastic surgeons may be trained in special microsurgery techniques for reconstruction after trauma or injury, such as to the hand or other parts of the body. Plastic surgeons often treat burn patients and do skin grafts.

Preventive Medicine

Preventive Medicine focuses on defined populations in order to maintain health. The distinctive components of Preventive Medicine include Biostatistics; epidemiology; health services administration and occupational influences on health; social and behavioral influences on health; measures that prevent the occurrence, progression, and disabling effects of disease or injury.

Psychiatry

These specialists deal with mental, emotion, and/or behavioral disorders. They also enhance the adaptation of individuals who are coping with stress, crisis, and other problems of living. A psychiatrist may sub-specialize in child psychiatry.

Psychiatrists, on occasion, hospitalize patients for more intensive care observation or therapy. This type of attention is usually provided in a mental health care hospital or facility with staff especially trained to handle, evaluate, and support patients with these needs. Psychiatrists are physicians who may utilize drug therapy, counseling, psychoanalysis, and may work closely with other physicians in ruling out other biological causes of disease. Sometimes a psychiatrist may refer patients to psychologists and social workers for additional support. Outpatient and office management is management is an important part of the psychiatrist's service.

Therapeutic Radiology

Radiation oncology is that branch of radiology, which deals with application of radiant energy (x-rays) in the treatment of malignant tumors.

Diagnostic Radiology

These are specialists of medicine who are highly trained to read and interpret X-rays of the body. These physicians are referred patients either as outpatients or in the hospital to help in the medical or surgical evaluation of patients. They prepare reports to the referring physician to help them in their diagnosis and treatment plan. Additional techniques of evaluation include ultrasound, CAT or MRI-scans. In addition, special invasive procedures may be performed in which dyes may be injected into arteries or veins to allow better visualization of body structures. The radiologist also provides interventional care and may catheterize arteries, perform angioplasty to expand and dilate the vessel lumens to improve blood flow. Some radiologists are especially trained to place thin needles into abnormalities detected by the X-ray and take very small samples for diagnostic purposes.

Surgery

General Surgery: A general surgeon manages surgical conditions affecting almost any area of the body. General surgeons often evaluate patients to determine whether surgery is needed or not. Patients with acute abdominal pain may be examined by a surgeon to determine if it is a surgical or non-surgical problem.

Some common operations performed by general surgeons are cholecystectomy (gallbladder removal), appendectomy for appendicitis, operations to biopsy tissues for diagnostic purposes as in the breast, colon, liver, pancreas, and removal or repair of damaged or diseased tissues and organs. Some operations performed by general surgeons repair injured tissues without removing tissues.

Colorectal Surgery: A Colon and rectal surgeon is an expert in the surgical treatment of colon and rectal diseases. In addition to finishing a general surgery residency, a colorectal surgeon has undergone an additional year of advanced training to specialize in treating benign disorders and malignant diseases of the colon and rectum and in performing colonoscopies. They treat benign disorders such as hemorrhoids, fissures, abscesses, anal incontinence constipation and inflammatory bowel diseases. They also utilize the latest technologies and a multidisciplinary approach to evaluate and treat malignant diseases such as colon cancer, rectal cancer, and anal cancer.

General/Vascular Surgery: A surgeon with special qualifications in the management of surgical disorders of the blood vessels, excluding those of the heart, lungs or brain.

Examples of operations performed by general/vascular surgeons include grafting of vessels that are occluded by blood clot and atherosclerosis that may occur in the carotid vessels, aorta, or leg vein arteries.

Thoracic Surgery

Thoracic Surgery encompasses the operative and critical care of patients with pathologic conditions within the chest. Cardiovascular surgery is included in this area and is the surgical care of carotid and coronary artery disease, heart valves, and birth anomalies of the heart. The may also treat surgically tumors of the chest, including the lung, esophagus, and chest wall. The management of the airway and injuries of the chest is within the scope of this specialty.

Urology

A specialist in Urology is a physician who has fulfilled the requirements of, and is certified by the American Board of Urology. He is competent to manage benign and malignant medical and surgical disorders of the adrenal gland and of the genital and urinary systems. Urologists have comprehensive knowledge of, and skills in endoscopic, percutaneous, and open surgery of congenital and acquired conditions of the reproductive urinary systems and their related structures.

The urologist may do cystoscopy to evaluate the bladder and drainage system from the kidneys. The urologist also performs examination of the prostate and rectal and various biopsy techniques to evaluate tumors of the prostate. The urologist evaluates, diagnosis, and treats in both males and females. Procedures to treat a variety of conditions ranging from urinary incontinence, inability to urinate, infections of the urinary tract, as well as tumors, are some of the areas covered by urology.
