The Compliant Myths of Surcharging/Cash Discounting Programs as they continue to grow and succeed within our payments eco-system!

David Leppek, Executive Payment Consultant, StatementIQ

Adding a surcharge to a card payment is a relatively recent trend with U.S. payment solutions, and yet the majority of the products offered are knowingly non-compliant. We will explore the various schemes, the justifications used to persuade others that they are compliant, and why the industry doesn't seem to care. These are things for you to consider when supporting the variety of programs in your own shops!

How Safe Are Your Merchants' Shopping Carts? - Sponsored by SecurityMetrics

David Ellis VP, Investigations, GCIH, PFI, QSA, CISSP, SecurityMetrics

In the new economy, integrity is king. While the payments ecosystem has long been online, the current crisis forces many onto the web-ready or not. As the payments industry deals with these challenges, another threat lurks: malicious attacks on payment pages that siphon form data and sell it on the dark web. Current security solutions only take you so far; rampant skimming attacks remain largely out of reach since they occur in a dynamic environment. So how can you detect it? How can you maintain integrity? SecurityMetrics VP of Investigations, David Ellis, will address this perplexing problem and demonstrate to attendees that there is a way to come out on top.
