MASBO Presenter - Special Education Finance

"I still remember my first experience in special education. As a volunteer in college, I met Ryan, a young child with autism who initially observed me with skepticism. Through patience and shared activities, I gained his trust. Watching Ryan's hesitant transformation into a joyful participant in our activities solidified my desire to pursue a career in special education. From that moment forward, I have served students with disabilities, and I would be humbled and honored to continue that service as MASE President-Elect."
