9th. Section 608 of the Federal Clean Air Act requires that all persons who maintain, service, repair or dispose of appliances that contain regulated substances be certified in proper refrigerant handling techniques. Technicians are required to pass an EPA-approved test to earn Section 608 Technician Certification. The tests are specific to the type of equipment the technician seeks to work on.

Attend this class if you need to obtain the EPA Type I, Type II, Type III, or Universal HVAC certification. This class is a review of the New EPA 608 course workbook or as a refresher course in preparation for the exam.

To earn any of the certifications the CORE exam must be passed along with at least one of the following:

Type I – Persons who maintain, service, or repair small appliances must be certified as Type I technicians.

Type II – Persons who maintain, service, repair, or dispose of the medium-, high-, or very high-pressure appliances (except small appliances, MVACs, and MVAC-like appliances) must be certified as Type II technicians.

Type III – Persons who maintain, service, repair, or dispose of low-pressure appliances must be certified as Type III technicians.

This 8 hour course will consist of two sections. Section 1 includes 6 hours of instruction about EPA regulations, updates and proper refrigerant handling techniques. In section 2, you will have the opportunity to take the EPA Certification test.
