

THE VALUE OF A GOOD IDEA?

What's the value of a good idea? What's it worth to you to learn to do something better, different, with less effort? How much would you pay to lower the cost or increase your bottom line without compromising quality?

On Wednesday, March 19, 2025, more than 750 property management professionals from throughout the national capital region have the opportunity to become heroes. On that date, PMA will present the 50th Property Management Exposition (PMEXPO). From 9am-4pm, more than 150 companies that specialize in serving the needs of multifamily residential, commercial and mixed-use properties will strut their stuff.

They will showcase new technologies, introduce never before seen products offerings and demonstrate new and innovative approaches that can lower your costs, reduce the time it takes to complete a job and make your life much easier. For the past five decades, PMEXPO has been the most cost-effective way for property management companies to discover new suppliers and to make their businesses and properties run better.

The question is what good ideas will you find at PMEXPO and how will you convert them into new opportunities that make you a hero and your properties stars?

PMEXPO on Wednesday, March 19, 2025, at the Prince George's Sports & Learning Complex from 9 am to 4 pm. Exhibit hall admission is free. The experience is priceless. Register your team at <https://www.pma-dc.org/events/pmexpo-2025>
