

POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

I. Introduction

The function of the Board of Directors is to establish and review major policy and carry out the mission and the goals of the Association. Board members have specific legal and fiscal responsibilities to the members of the Association. As a board member, you will be working in cooperation with your president, your fellow Board members, your Association Director and your membership. This policy manual is designed to help each Board member work as a team in adhering to the SWFAA Chapter, Bylaws, and Mission Statement, and in achieving the Association's goals.

A. Policies and Procedures

Policies and procedures are Board approved working guidelines for Board of Directors at any given Board meeting can change any policy or procedure. No policy or procedure may contradict the Chapter, Bylaws, and Mission Statement.

B. Board of Directors

Any material from the Board of Directors is for your information only and is intended as a resource tool throughout your term. Keep a file which includes your policy manual, association budget, organization/contact chart, Charter, Bylaws, Mission Statement, calendar of events and monthly dividers. It's a great way to keep items such as minutes, agendas, financial reports, etc. easily accessible.

II. Working within a Non-Profit Organization

SWFAA and you and your fellow volunteer Directors and Officers are a collective team comprised of different individuals with individual talents. Our job is to carry out the objectives of the Board of Directors and committees, as well as their policies and programs.

A. What is expected of the Association Director?

1. Be a good steward of the Association's money. Be thrifty and protect member investments.
2. Don't waste their time or that of other's. Use what is given to the Association wisely.
3. Seek out volunteer opinions in problem solving and offer solutions.
4. Keep volunteers apprised of necessary information to enable them to carry out their responsibilities.
5. Stick to what is professionally correct and best for the Association.
6. Respect volunteer viewpoints and attempt to work their views into the overall fabric of the Association.
7. Exert firm but polite pressure in achieving mutual objectives.
8. Treat all members equally. Don't do favors for volunteers that would put the Directors and/or Association

Director in a compromising position with the Association's members or policies.

9. Work hard, be fair, and make the Association the best in the industry.
- B. What should Volunteers expect of themselves?
1. When agreeing to hold a committee position, give the time they have committed.
 2. When they cannot meet their responsibilities, put limits on their involvement.
 3. Give the association the same intellectual commitment and judgment they would give their own business.
 4. Provide leadership to the whole Association and to the committees, and programs we serve.
 5. Give proper credit for successes where credit is due.
 6. Provide specifics in plans and guidelines and not generalities.
 7. Respect the style and the individuality of the members and of the Association. Just as no two members are identical; so, too, is this Association not identical to other associations. Each person in an association is unique with different strengths, challenges, and ways of getting the job done.
- C. What should the Association Director expect from Volunteers?
1. Creativity in addressing issues and solving problems.
 2. Respect and consideration of the association executive's judgment and recommendations.
 3. Receive continuing education about SWFAA and their job.
 4. Volunteers have individual strengths and assets that must be identified and put to effective use.
 5. Working knowledge of membership

III. Board Meeting Etiquette

- A. Prepare for and anticipate the Board Meetings.
- B. During the meeting, follow the agenda. Wait until the President asks for discussion of subjects not on the agenda before bringing up new business.
- C. Learn the exact purpose of the meeting and determine in advance how you are going to contribute.
- D. Keep your responses short and to the point.
- E. When you speak, speak clearly in a voice everyone can hear. Wait until you have the attention of the entire Board before you begin your remarks.
- F. Side conversations are distracting and should be avoided.
- G. If aimless discussions arise on issues that require study or research, stop them with a motion that the appropriate committee studies the issue. This is one of the best methods for moving a meeting along and adjourning on time.
- H. If it needs to be said, say it. Do not hesitate to comment, criticize constructively, or disagree. Be prepared to offer solutions.

- I. If you disagree with the speaker, ask questions at the proper time. Make sure remarks are completely clarified.
- J. If you have a comment, ask for the floor rather than joining an aimless group discussion. Genuine contribution may be lost in confused conversation.
- K. There may be dissenters or those with different points of view on particular subjects. Ask others to summarize their convictions. This permits a more thorough examination of an idea that could be highly constructive when completely understood.
- L. Hastily passed motions usually do not receive the consideration they deserve. It is better to table a motion until the next meeting than to pass one you will regret.
- M. Ask timely and substantive questions at board meetings consistent with your conscience and convictions, while supporting the majority decision on issues decided by the board.
- N. Maintain confidentiality of the board's sessions and speak for the board or organization only when authorized to do so.
- O. Suggest agenda items periodically for Board Meetings to ensure that significant, policy –related matters are addressed.
- P. After the meeting, ask yourself if you have made a genuine contribution to the Association.

IV. Attendance at the Board Meetings

- A. Attendance at Board Meetings shall be governed by the Bylaws.

In addition to actual conflicts of interest, all persons subject to the policy are obligated to avoid actions that could be perceived or interpreted as being in conflict with SWFAA's interest. To avoid actual, potential, or even the appearance of conflicts of interests, persons subject to the policy should disclose any connection or relationship with organizations or enterprises doing business with SWFAA and refrain from participating in decisions affecting transactions between SWFAA and the other organization or enterprise. The mere existence of a connection or relationship shall not prevent a transaction from taking place; however, so long as: 1) the relationship is disclosed; 2) disinterested individuals make the necessary decisions; and 3) the terms of the transaction are fair and reasonably comparable to those available in other commercial transactions where the parties are entirely independent of one another. XI. Representing the Membership

A. As an officer or Director, you are an elected representative of the Association members. You are responsible to represent their ideas. Your creativity is also important. The success of SWFAA depends on your performance as an Officer or Director. The following is a list of general expectations while serving on the Board.

- 1. Know the association's mission, purposes, goals, policies, programs, services, strengths, and needs. SWFAA, within the Charter, Bylaws, and Mission Statement, states its purpose, objective, and methods of operation. These documents chart SWFAA's operation and explain some of these rules. Unless a rule is changed through formal procedures, the Association must adhere to its governing documents.
- 2. Serve the organization as a whole rather than any special interest group or constituency. Your first obligation is to avoid any preconception that you "represent" anything but the Association's best interest.

3. Avoid even the appearance of a conflict of interest that might embarrass the board or the Association, and disclose any possible conflicts to the board in a timely fashion.
4. Maintain independence and objectivity and do what a sense of fairness, ethics and personal integrity dictate.
5. Be responsible for considering the needs of the membership-at-large. Your position as an Officer or Director is measured by your ability to judge and plan on the basis of overall consideration. It is your responsibility to determine what the members need and want and to bring those needs to the attention of the full Board. You should also suggest ways in which these needs may be fulfilled.
6. Carefully consider what you say and do. You are closer to the operation of the Association than most of your fellow members; therefore, when you make statements about the Association, members will tend to believe you and accept your statements as official policy. As an officer or director, it is your professional and ethical responsibility to maintain confidentiality on Board and Association matters. Well informed, constructive criticism is essential to the operation of a healthy Board. If you have constructive criticism, it is your responsibility to bring it before the Board. If you are concerned about an Association policy, issue, employee, or Board member, communicate the criticism to the president or the AE for review by the Executive Committee.
7. Discuss your responsibilities with the President and/or the AE. The AE is continually working with the Association and can offer valuable suggestions. Your president will advise you on issues that need attention and concentration. You're input and professional opinion is valuable.
8. Behave prudently in your role as an Officer or Director. While SWFAA maintains Director and Officer Liability Insurance, members of the Board of Directors can be held individually or collectively liable if someone decides to challenge the legality of the Association's action.
