

During a career built on communication and community building, TISH YOUNG McCUTCHEN has been a catalyst for community action, bringing people and organizations together to work toward a common goal. Currently she serves as program officer for the Jolley Foundation, a Greenville, SC, family foundation whose mission is to advance Greenville's efforts to eliminate the root causes and effects of poverty and discrimination. Prior to joining the Jolley Foundation in 2017, she served on the executive team of United Way of Greenville County for three years, leading that organization's organizational development and strategic impact work.

Tish spent 10 years with United Way Worldwide, the global United Way leadership organization, in a variety of communication, engagement, and capacity-building roles, working closely with local United Ways across the USA. She started her United Way career in 2001 as executive director of the Greater Longview United Way in Longview, Texas.

In addition, she has more than two decades of experience as a consultant and coach of nonprofit organizations.

Tish began her career as a reporter and editor with the Atlanta Constitution in Atlanta, Georgia, following her graduation from Agnes Scott College in Decatur, Georgia. She also has a Master's of Public Administration degree from the University of Texas.
