Museums and other cultural organizations return more than 5x as much in local, state, and federal tax revenue as they receive from all levels of government.

The typical museum spends 75% of their education budget directly on K-12 students.

97% of survey respondents identify museums as educational assets in their community.

Over $57 million per year is spent on educational programs and activities by museums in Virginia.

Approximately 1.6 million school-aged children in Virginia visit museums every year.